Marcus Garrett

Host of the Paychecks & Balances Podcast and Author of Debt Free or Die Trying

BIO

Marcus obtained a Bachelor of Arts in Business Administration after surviving the mean streets of the inner suburbs in the great state of Texas. Over a decade of professional experience as a Certified Internal Auditor combined with freelance writing on topics ranging from current events to love and relationships have helped Marcus develop a unique qualitative and quantitative perspective. His advice focuses on meeting individuals where they are in life rather than lecturing about where they should be: "talking to versus talking at."

"LIVING LIFE AND LIVING DEBT FREE ARE NOT MUTUALLY EXCLUSIVE GOALS."

As a Senior Millennial, Mr. Garrett's exhaustive shortcomings are amplified by a sense of entitlement, apathy, and narcissism. He is predisposed to sarcasm as a self-coping mechanism and his inflated self-esteem has been amplified with participation trophies given to him without merit during his most impressionable years. Tragically, these many faults do not include the untold but undoubtedly negative effects of rap music and the internet. Nevertheless, he remains optimistic about his ability to serve others by identifying practical ways to manage and reduce their debts while improving their understanding of their own personal finances. He is available for debt consulting, freelance writing, voice overs, trainings, or to develop other tailored content upon request.
